Cupid's Quick Action.
 Fred Knight sailed for Honolulu last week to be present at the marriage of his step-daughter Miss Thelma Parker and Henry Gaillard Smart which will be celebrated at Waimea, the famous Parker plantation which yields the young heiress an enormous revenue. Harry Smart is the son of a poor Methodist clergyman in Virginia who went to Honolulu to engage in business, sailing from San Francisco on the same steamer that carried Miss Parker and her mother to the islands several months ago. The courtship was brief and has been followed by a brief engagement to culminate in the marriage on July 26. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in the islands returning to spend the winter in this city.—San Francisco Town Talk.

In the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends, the marriage of Miss Ethel Angus and Mr. John Howard Ellis was solemnized last Saturday evening at half-past eight o'clock. Central Union church, where the wedding took place, was prettily decorated with greens and white flowers. The bride wore a handsome gown of white crepe meteor and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and white gardenias. The maid of honor, Miss Jean Angus, wore a gown of blue satin veiled with chiffon, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and maidenhair fern.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother on Emma street.
